Cartus Intern Program in EMEA Wins Honors

DANBURY, Conn., (June 25, 2014) – Cartus EMEA (Europe, Middle East, and Africa) operations has won a prestigious relocation award for its internship program: the Best Growing Talent Initiative Award, announced at the recent 2014 Re:locate Magazine Awards in London.

Launched in 2012, in partnership with the University of the West of England, Cartus' highly successful internship program provides young people with a genuine opportunity to make valuable contributions to clients and their international assignees. Interns are placed each year in Cartus' Swindon, London, and Geneva offices.

The Best Growing Talent Initiative Award seeks to foster a true strategic partnership between talent and mobility. Of Cartus' winning entry, the judges remarked: "The [Cartus] interns are given satisfying work, and they clearly flourish and enjoy their roles, as they return to join the company. This suggests an effective program that gives realistic previews of the world of a relocation consultant."

"I am delighted by the success of the programme," said Ian Payne, managing director and executive vice president of Cartus. "As a company, we wanted to contribute something to employment opportunities for young people as well as nurture the next generation of relocation professionals, who will be key to achieving global mobility success for our clients in the future."
