Cartus Awards Three Scholarships

DANBURY, Conn., (July 31, 2014) – Cartus Corporation, a leading provider of global relocation services, has named three local students as recipients of the company's annual collegiate Scholarship Awards, which total $4,000. In all, 20 applicants who are children of Cartus employees were considered for the awards.

The 2014 recipient of the company's $2,000 Scholarship Award was Anna Northrop of Sandy Hook, who will attend Stanford University. Two students won $1,000 scholarships: Patrick Murphy of Shelton, who will attend Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and Kelly Roper of Bethel, who will attend Suffolk University.

"Developing global leadership for the future is a key focus of talent management initiatives by companies around the world," said Amy Meichner, Cartus senior vice president, global human resources. "We believe that such initiatives cannot begin too early, and one of the ways we support them at Cartus is through our annual scholarship awards for the children of our employees."

Cartus has offered its Scholarship Awards for the past five years, distributing more than $20,000 to college-bound children of Cartus employees during that time.
